The Trail of Blood INTRODUCTION BY CLARENCE WALKER Dr. J. M. Carroll, the author of this book, was born in the state of Arkansas, January 8, 1858, and died in Texas, January 10, 1931.

The Southern Baptist Convention makes statements regarding specific issues by means of resolutions passed at our annual gatherings each June. Southern Baptist polity views these resolutions as expressions of opinions representative of the messengers attending the meeting. They are not binding upon any individual church or successive Convention.

Jul 30, 2021 · “Presbyterian” by definition means not Lutheran, not Anglican, not Baptist, not Congregationalist, not Quaker, not Methodist. Of course, someone can be not a Baptist in a disagreeable manner. But if the metric for offensiveness is calibrated to the ethos of cosmopolitan urban centers, the bar for giving offense was just set really low.

An episcopal polity is a hierarchical form of church governance (“ecclesiastical polity”) in which the chief local authorities are called bishops. (The word “bishop” derives, via the British Latin and Vulgar Latin term *ebiscopus/*biscopus, from the Ancient Greek ????????? epískopos meaning “overseen”.) It is the structure used by many of the major Christian Churches and

Dec 06, 2021 · One of the biggest differences between Baptists and Presbyterians is their church polity (or practice of church government). Most Baptist churches are autonomous and governed by meetings of the whole congregation. This is also called congregationalism.

Apr 26, 2021 · In addition to those churches which practice a congregational form of government, there are also those which call themselves Congregational Churches. Most of these are affiliated with the United Church of Christ, the National Association of Congregational Christian Churches, or the Conservative Congregational Christian Conference.

Baptist worship is closely related to Baptist doctrines and polity. For example, the belief in the lordship of Christ guides the Baptist conviction that in worship churches are to focus on Jesus and seek to find and follow his will. The Baptist conviction regarding the Bible as the authority for faith and practice is manifest in worship by
